happy flail That's one of my favorite foodie blogs; she writes so well about the process of constructing recipes that even fairly complicated and unfamiliar things like curry are not scary. And it's on her account that I now am never without a bottle of Shao Hsing wine in my kitchen, for it is one of the tastiest ingredients in the world.

Sounds delicious. :9

A friend of mine linked this site, and I'm not sure whether I should kiss him or curse him:

<http://www.manjulaskitchen.com/> Vegetarian & vegan Indian recipes. Gave me a serious craving for kheer and gulab jamun.
